SOUTH SCITUATE.

Gracious! I don't seem quiet here since Mr. Hornblower has returned to his home in New York.

Say "Ed" lets trade horses insight and unseen, and Downer Landing is a good place to trade as any.

Joshua T. Foster, Esq., representative from Medford and one of its selectmen, is on a visit among his relatives in South Scituate.

A very appropriate sign has been placed at each end of Mill Lane which contains a warning in which there is more truth than poetry.

Brother Bowler's house has been painted up in good shape and blinds placed upon it all of which is the hand-work of Federen & Son of Quincy.

The early frosts stole upon the farmers like a thief in the night and stole a large number of squashes and gave many other vegetables a severe nipping.

The Night Blooming Cereus of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cortell has bloomed three times lately, two blossoms Thursday night and one Friday, and by the way, they thought the two Thursday night were false alarms but found on awakening in the morning that they had bloomed during the night.

How does your well hold out? the drouth is getting pretty serious, but we cordially invite our neighbors who are short of water to help themselves from our well as we have four feet of good clear cold water free to those who may wish to avail themselves of the privilege of taking the same. We are willing to share as long as it holds out.

The funeral of little Willie Pitts, son of Seth O. and Abbie Pitts, took place from his father's house Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 4, and was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends, the little one who was so suddenly taken away was a very smart pretty little fellow who had made many friends, by his sprightly ways. He was six years old and was a member of Miss Mary Sparrel's school and a sweet singer. Rev. Mr. Causey of Scituate Harbor M. E. Church was in attendance and spoke very feelingly. His remarks to the school mates were appreciated by all who heard him. The members of the school in District No. 6 attended the funeral as a school and Foster's barge conveyed them to the cemetery where under the guidance of Miss Sparrel they escorted the remains of their little school mate to its last resting place. There was an abundance of flowers, among the floral tributes was a pillow from his schoolmates and a wreath from the Misses Sampson. The services were in charge of Mr. C. W. Sparrel which reflected much credit upon his ability to manage these delicate affairs smoothly.

WEST SCITUATE.

Dancing at Assinippi Hall on Friday evening, Sept. 21st.

Smoke from all directions but fortunately we have thus far escaped the calamity of fire. Too much care can not be exercised in the present dry state of the woods and fields.

A little controversy between Wm. Allison and James Studley led to a trial of their speed on Main street N. Hanover, last Saturday P. M. Mr. Allison won in two straight heats.

Mr. S. O. Jacobs is making considerable improvement in the appearance of his place. He has constructed a new stable and moved his horses back from the street on the line of W. F. Turner's.

Now there is a chance for the voters to attend the primaries. Things can't be cut and dried if the masses will only turn out to the caucuses. The sure way to promote bosom and machine methods is to neglect the caucus.

Monday Sept. 3d, a large share of our population went to Nantasket to witness the grand illumination. Almost every available conveyance was in use. The illumination was not equal to some previous years, yet considering the high wind and the great danger of fire on account of the dryness, we were surprised at its extent and beauty.

We hear from Rockland that burglaries are becoming very common. Few nights pass without a robbery or attempt being reported. Last Friday night a Mr. Wilkes on Summer St. lost six hundred dollars and some other articles. This is the largest haul we have heard of being made by the burglars. We hope that if they come to this section we shall all be prepared to give them a warm reception.

EAST MARSHFIELD.

Many wells in East Marshfield are giving out and unless rain comes soon the people will have to resort to the pond.

Exhibits are increasing daily for the Foreign exhibition, Boston, and so is the multitude. It is beginning to look like the Centennial seven years ago, at Philadelphia.

The drought affects unfavorably the grape. It is so dry it fails to color and ripen. They are also shrinking and drying up, and what at first of the season seem to give promise of a great crop of grapes, is now turning the scale on the wrong side of the balance,

We notice that a great improvement is in the condition of roads in the Justice District has been brought about by raking the stones from the high walls, being fully supplied with stone walls, and by removing the great portion of the building. It is covered by a high arched roof supported by single circular span, "true rafters," the central portion of the roof, about thirty feet wide the entire length, being open, with an elevated trunk roof covering the main entrance, which has two side doors to open at will.

The centre of this building, being probably quite one hundred feet above the ground, thus furnishing ample space for fresh air, so necessary to the purity and healthfulness of a large public market.

Those who are engaged in business "quarantine" in Boston, the largest and most populous public market house in the country at the time it was built, with its long one acre fanned on either side by a succession of stalls, under a ceiling scarcely twenty feet high, will see at once the advantages of an airy structure such as I have described.

Mr. Israel H. Macomber met with a serious accident a few days since, which will doubtless result in the loss of sight to one of his eyes. In attempting to drill a hole through a piece of sheet iron he used a nail set for that purpose. His attendant striking it a vigorous blow, caused the steel drill to rebound hitting Mr. Macomber full in the eye, inflicting a terrible wound. Dr. Davie was called and at once recommended his removal to the eye infirmary in Boston, where he at present remains.

The fall term of the schools in E. Marshfield commenced Sept. 3. Miss Angie C. Damon who has taught successfully in the South District takes charge of the Grammar department, and Miss Abby Baker resumes her duties as teacher in the Primary department.

Miss Lizzie Brown who graduated from the Normal School at Bridgewater this year, is teaching in the town of Durbury.

Miss Mabel Rogers is teaching in Belmont, Mass.

Miss Sarah Leonard and Miss Mabel Wetherbee returned to their respective schools the third inst. Miss Alice B. Wetherbee having passed the required examinations before Wellesley College, appointed teacher of the Adams farm in the Normal Art School, Boston, and Miss Lulu Griffin enters the same institution this term as a pupil.

MARSHFIELD CENTRE.

Solomon Lewis and wife were in town last week.

Mr. Luther S. Foggs has taken up his winter quarters at the Hunt place.

Mr. Barren Watson of Philadelphia the purchaser of the Adams farm is in town and will soon occupy its premises.

F. A. Adams has the past week purchased another as "hucksters" or dealers in produce. These are mostly German or German extraction, frequently farmers' wives and generally elderly women past middle age, by whom the produce is usually purchased, become very proficient in the business of running "Stalls," and in their own names, conducting a most successful business.

Another peculiarity of Philadelphia markets is the large number of women engaged as "hucksters" or dealers in produce. These are mostly German or German extraction, frequently farmers' wives and generally elderly women past middle age, by whom the produce is usually purchased, become very proficient in the business of running "Stalls," and in their own names, conducting a most successful business.

Between "market days," some of these women sell small fruits, fish, etc., from houses to houses conveying their supply in barrels, boxes, etc., and during the warm weather, the early mornings are made up by their voices crying whatever they have to sell. In the months of May and June one is likely to be awakened mornings by the sound of "strawberries"—or perhaps on a Friday, by "cat-tail" "cat-tail" a response to a morning call, by which the seller comes to see what case and skill there are to manage the heavy burdens that carry them on their heads. I have frequently seen them with not less than three pecks of strawberries on a tray at one time, which they carry in bulk and sell out in measure as required. Fruits and vegetables, an immense variety of dried and preserved, are sold in great quantities, and are often seen in the market places.
